

Memorial Day

The Last Monday in May

Memorial Day honors those who died while serving in the military. It was started after the Civil War. At first, it was called Decoration Day. People decorated graves with flowers. They said prayers to honor fallen soldiers. People celebrate this holiday in different ways. They go to cemeteries or memorials. Some communities have parades. People from the Army or Navy might march in a parade. There is a National Moment of Remembrance. This is a moment of silence to honor those who sacrificed their lives for our freedom.

Fields of Poppies

Directions: Read the passage. Then listen as your teacher reads the poems aloud. Discuss with a partner the meaning of any words that are new to you. Work together with one or more classmates to draw pictures to illustrate the stanzas in the poem.

On Memorial Day, some people wear red poppies. Often the flowers are not real. They are made out of silk. The red poppy stands for the sacrifices of war. A lady named Moina Michael wrote a poem. Her poem honors people who died fighting for freedom.

We cherish too, the Poppy red
That grows on fields where valor led,
It seems to signal to the skies
That blood of heroes never dies.

—Moina Michael, 1915

Michael got the idea for her poem from another poem.

In Flanders Fields

In Flanders Fields the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our place, and in the sky,
The larks, still bravely singing, fly,
Scarce heard amid the guns below.
We are the dead; short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved, and now we lie

In Flanders Fields.

Take up our quarrel with the foe!
To you from falling hands we throw
The torch; be yours to hold it high!
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow

In Flanders Fields.

Tomb of the Unknown Soldier

Directions: Read the passage. Then answer the questions.

Washington, D.C. has a special cemetery. Arlington National Cemetery is for soldiers. On a hill, there is a white marble tomb. An unknown soldier is buried in the tomb. He fought in World War I. Three figures are engraved in the marble. They stand for peace, victory, and valor. We honor those who fought in wars for their courage. The stone also has words etched on it. This is what it says:

Here rests in honored glory an American soldier known but to God.

Other markers have been added to the memorial site. The markers are flat slabs made of white marble. They honor unknown soldiers from other wars. The soldiers fought in World Wars I and II, Korea, and Vietnam.

A guard watches the tomb every day of the year. There is a guard on duty day and night. They stand guard in all kinds of weather. The guard changes once an hour in the winter. In the summer, the guard changes every half hour. The guard marches 21 steps. He waits 21 seconds. Then he turns and waits another 21 seconds. The guard marches 21 steps again in front of the tomb. The highest military honor is a 21-gun salute. Volunteers serve as guards. They go through training. Part of their training is to learn the history of the cemetery. The guards think it is an honor to remember soldiers who served our country.

Taps

On Memorial Day, we honor people who fought for freedom. We remember those who sacrificed their lives. Our country has a National Moment of Remembrance. In the afternoon, everyone stops what they are doing for a moment of silence. During this time, we remember those who helped our country.

Often at a soldier's funeral, a bugle plays the song "Taps." This song is also played at the end of the day. Some people think the song sounds sad. Other people think the notes are full of rest and peace. The song is an echo of the day that has just ended. At a memorial service, the notes linger, reminding people of a hero's life.

The Army says there are no set words for the song. Someone once wrote some words. You may have heard these words before.

Directions: Read the words to yourself as you listen to a recording of the song. Draw a picture as you listen. Explain to a classmate how your picture illustrates the song and its message. Observe a moment of silence to remember those who have fought for freedom for our country.

Fading light dims the sight,
and a star gems the sky, gleaming bright.
From afar drawing nigh. Falls the night.
Day is done, gone the sun.
From the lake, from the hills, from the sky.
All is well, safely rest, God is nigh.
Then good night, peaceful night.
Til the light of the dawn shineth bright;
God is near, do not fear. Friend, good night.
